

Educational Resources

Helpline

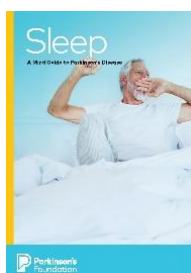

1-800-4PD-INFO (473-4636)

Helpline@Parkinson.org

Our Parkinson's information specialists provide up-to-date information about Parkinson's, emotional support and referrals to health professionals and community resources.

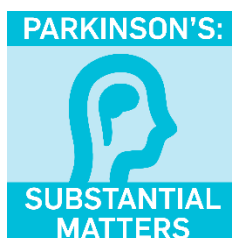

Publications

Our well-respected educational book series focuses on issues critical to people with Parkinson's. You can order free print copies of all our publications, ranging from introductory information to in-depth material on important topics, or read them online. Order directly at Parkinson.org/store.

Podcast

Hear directly from Parkinson's experts in our podcast series, Substantial Matters: Life and Science of Parkinson's. Interviews highlight the treatments and techniques that can help you live a better life now, as well as the research that can bring a better tomorrow.

Webinars

Participate live or watch one of our more than 40 archived presentations to learn more about Parkinson's symptoms, progression, treatments and management. Online registration is free.

Parkinson's Foundation

Online Education

Parkinson.org is the go-to source for any information you need about Parkinson's. Articles, videos, fact sheets and more will help you understand the disease, find resources, connect with providers and get involved with the Parkinson's community.

- Comprehensive PD library
- "Near me" feature
- Parkinson's Today blog
- "Ask the Doctor" forums
- Events calendar

Aware in Care Kit

This free kit has tools and information to help a person with Parkinson's get the best possible care in the hospital, whether it's a planned or emergency visit.

Explore these resources at Parkinson.org/library or call 1-800-4PD-INFO (473-4636).